QUINCY ADAMS IS A WHOLESOME PLAY

It Drew an Audience Last Night That Filled the Academy.

There is always a wholesome atmosphere about most of the plays of rural life in New England that is invigorating to the theatre-goer who has seen too many so-called society and problem plays.

"Quincy Adams Sawyer," which was presented at the Academy yesterday at two performances, is a play that appeals to the better side of one's nature. It is not a great play, and contains some very noisy scenes, but for all that it is a piece that amply repays one for having witnessed it. The scenes are those of a New England village, and the character are types usually found in the small town. There is no villain in the play, except as it may seem. Obedias Strout, for want of a real villain, has to have all of the mean traits piled upon him, but then he is not the genuine article known in stage parlance as a "heavy."

The company, with one exception, was quite capable, and several of the parts were really well played. E. H. Stephens doing the character work as Abner Stiles, in which role he was simply another "Seth Perkins," and Raymond Chase appearing to advantage as Hiram Maxwell.

The one discordant note that marred the harmony of the whole was the work of Miss Ada "Pugh," as Liddy Putnam.

She was badly cast.

Every seat in the house was sold at the evening performance, and many had to be satisfied with standing room. The foot-ball spirit was manifested once or twice during the evening.

Moving Pictures.

Of the bill at the Academy for to-night and to-morrow, matinee and night, the "Argus" said recently: "There is certainly nothing superior in the moving picture line to the line exhibition given by Mr. Archie A. Shepard. The people here, accustomed to the fact in past amusement seasons, and they have once more placed their stamp of approval upon the enjoyable and instructive entertainment. It was not only a big audience at the Jefferson Theatre last evening, but a thoroughly interested one, and demonstrative as well. Mr. Shepard has retained but few of his last season's stock of views, his comic, sentimental and dramatic pictures being new, as well as his illustrations of travel. In connection with the last named views it may be said that they give one quite as correct and impressive a knowledge of the world's famous localities as a personal visit would."

"Secret Service."

The management of the Academy of Music takes pleasure in announcing the engagement of Bothner and Campbell's concert company in William Gillette's dramatization of Sir A. Conan Doyle's famous creation of fiction, "Sherlock Holmes." The play, that made such an enormous hit in London and New York, runs a full season in each city. "Sherlock Holmes," as a play, has more than duplicated the success it attained as a book. It abounds in great dialogue, intense action and spirited dialogue. The performance is attended with the most remarkable light effects ever produced on the stage. A city has yet to be visited where it fails to please the most fastidious and blasé. The performance here will be given with the beautiful scenic environments and strong company of supporting players that won the highest approval of the critics of New York.

ALL RICHMOND IS GRATEFUL

Fitting Celebration of Thanksgiving in the Capital City.

GREAT CROWDS ON HAND

Little Disturbance, However, and All Seem to be of Good Cheer.

Richmond celebrated Thanksgiving in great style yesterday. The whole population seemed to be in good humor, and ready to join heartily in the joyous occasion. Business was practically suspended and this applied to public as well as to private institutions. The post-office was closed, except that one delivery was made during the morning.

There was no business at the City Hall, except that which went on in the "white chamber," where Justice John held forth for a short while. The offices of Governor Montague and Secretary of the Commonwealth, D. C. Eppinger, in the Powhatan Hotel, were closed, as were also those of all the departments at the State Library. The banks were closed all day, and none of the Federal offices were opened during the day, save the post-office.

Many Happy Homes.

The homes of Richmond people were apparently happy, and in most of them turkey and other Thanksgiving delicacies were enjoyed. Among the poorer classes, where the proprietors themselves were not able to provide a sumptuous dinner for their family, charity reached out, and in many such cases, there were glad hearts and many jolly surprises. The secret orders of the city always on the alert to do good for the suffering and the oppressed of earth, did not overlook their sacred mission, and numerous orders went out yesterday evening with the things that tend to nourish and stimulate the inner man.

Great Crowds Here.

The crowds that flowed into the city from all parts of Virginia and North Carolina were wonderful, and the hotels did a thriving business all during the day and night.

Many of the city, State, and Federal officials attended the football game. The day for a little hunting trip, and some of them returned last night with "dead loads" of game. The hunting game was not confined to office-holders, however. A great many persons, having some sporting blood in their veins, went out to try their luck. The game killed by Richmond sportsmen yesterday if piled up in one place would amount to a great deal.

Gave Little Trouble.

While the crowd in the city was an enormous one, the police had but little trouble in handling them, as there was the smallest amount of drunkenness and disorder.

Richmond enjoyed Thanksgiving day, and her people, deeply grateful for the good things that have come to them during the year, felt like taking "a day off."

Judge Mann to Speak.

Judge William Hodges Mann, who is the law clerk of the Supreme Court, will deliver an address at the Methodist Institute, Nineteenth and Main Streets, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. The subject of his address will be "The Effect of Legal Regulation in Minimizing the Evil of the Liquor Traffic." Attractive music by Captain Frank Cunningham and other soloists, as well as a quartette from the Trinity Church choir, which is exceptionally fine, will be rendered.

A Christmas Institution.

The Church Hill Santa Claus Club has become an established institution, and yearly is the medium of carrying cheer to the hearts of many needy ones. The organization of the club is so perfected as to provide for a zealous Lookout Committee, a distribution of needy cases and a judicious Distribution Committee to apportion the gifts properly.

At the annual election of officers just held, Mr. W. M. Bickers was chosen president; Mrs. J. M. Blanford, vice-president; Julius R. Jones, secretary, and W. D. Gay, treasurer. The club solicits contributions for the worthy cause.

Address on "Manliness."

The closing of the public schools for the Thanksgiving Day holiday and until Monday was marked by appropriate exercises at the schools. At the West End school Principal D. H. Rucker had arranged an interesting program, in which Dr. Edmund Harrison, of Kentucky, president of Bethel College, Professor Harrison spoke on "Manliness" and made an address on the "Spirit of Thanksgiving." The children of the school added songs and recitations to the program, which was an exceptionally attractive one, and was greatly enjoyed.

TOO WELL FED

Clergyman Not Entirely Sure On That Point.

There is an inclination among the ladies to rather overfeed the Denimite sometimes, and while that indirectly helps the sale of Grape-Nuts, it offers no suitable excuse for the makers to encourage the practice.

Dr. E. L. Trinkle, of Auburn, Ind., writes: "Whether it was from irregular habits and more or less badly prepared food taken during some of my travels, or whether I have been too well cared for by my parishioners does not seem entirely clear, however, the fact remains that I began to feel, and after a period of hard work I came down with a genuine case of nervous prostration."

"Seems the trouble had been brewing for some years, for several insurance companies had rejected me after careful examination by their physicians."

"I was urged to adopt Grape-Nuts and cream for my sole diet for breakfast and lunch. The request was urged so strongly that I concluded to follow the suggestion, and to my surprise, began to gain quickly in health and strength."

"I persisted in the use of this remarkable food, and a wonderful result followed. I have entirely regained my health, and am now enjoying the life of a man. I am one of the most conservative insurance companies in America, and have been accepted. It seems sufficient evidence of the change that has taken place as a result of the use of Grape-Nuts, given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

"Get the book, 'The Road to Wellville,' in each package."

UNION SERVICES OF THANKSGIVING

Dr. Evans Refers to President, Governor and Mayor—Spirit of Thankfulness.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND

Dr. Vinas at Grace Street—Offerings for Charitable Institutions and the Poor.

Particularly interesting Thanksgiving services were held yesterday in the Monumental Church. Dr. W. B. Evans preached, taking for his subject, "Thanksgiving and the Reasons for It."

In the course of his sermon Dr. Evans referred to the President, Governor of Virginia and the Mayor of Richmond. He referred to the President's proclamation as issuing from a Christian man as well as a man high in official authority. It was only an official form, still public Christian sentiment demanding such a proclamation, and such a form argued highly for the Christian as one of our present social order.

Dr. Evans proceeded to apply to church and individual cases this fact that every body, whatever the circumstances of life, has something for which to be thankful.

The church was beautifully decorated in a Thanksgiving garb, and was filled with the largest congregation ever seen at a week day service. The offering is to be devoted to the poor of the parish.

Baptists Unite.

At Grace Street Baptist Church Thanksgiving services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Vinas, pastor of Freemason Baptist Church, of Norfolk. The Scripture was read by Dr. W. R. L. Smith, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, and prayer was made by Dr. J. B. Taylor, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church. The text was "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." All the Baptist churches of the city united in the services. There was a large crowd, and a good collection was made. The offering was turned over to the Baptist Home for Aged Women.

All the congregations of the Presbyterian churches united and the Second Church was filled with worshippers.

Rev. Dr. McFadden was the preacher. He was assisted by Rev. Messrs. Cecil, Seward, Witherspoon, and Walther. The text was from 11th Psalm, on rendering service to God for His benefits. It was practical and impressive. Dr. Witherspoon presented the Methodist and Presbyterian Home, and a collection was taken up for this institution. The offering was turned over to the Baptist Home for Aged Women.

Methodists at Park Place.

Regular Union Thanksgiving services were held at Park Place Methodist Church. Rev. Mr. Simpson, pastor of Clay Street Methodist Church, preached, being assisted by Revs. Mr. Maxey and Dr. Spooner. All the West End churches joined in the general thanksgiving.

Dr. Hannon's Thanksgiving.

There was a good-sized congregation at St. James Methodist Church yesterday morning. Rev. J. T. Whitley, D. D., president of the Richmond Theological Seminary, was unable to preach, owing to a severe cold, contracted while at the conference in Louisville.

Dr. John Hannon, who was stationed to serve Cabell Street Church, Danville, the coming year, preached an admirable sermon in his own inimitable manner. A liberal contribution was received for the Home for Old Ladies, which is supported by the Methodists and Presbyterians of Richmond.

The Disciples Unite.

The Thanksgiving service at the Seventh Street Christian Church yesterday, in which all the churches of this denomination were represented, was exceptionally interesting. Rev. P. A. Cave presided and Rev. H. W. Sullist read the Scripture lesson for the day. The prayer was offered by Rev. Henry Pearce Atkins, Rev. J. J. Haley, pastor of the church, preached a powerful sermon. The musical programme was rendered by the choir of the church.

Phi Chis Celebrate.

The Thanksgiving banquet of the local Chapter of the Phi Chi Medical Fraternity was held last evening at the Richmond. The spacious Dutch room of the hotel was artistically decorated in green and white, the colors of the fraternity. Festive flowers and potted plants, being used. The flowers consisting of white roses and coronations were arranged as to form the background of potted plants.

Mr. Trinkle Here.

Mr. E. L. Trinkle, of Wayne county, is among the arrivals in this city yesterday. He came to the city on business, but is an alumnus of the University of Virginia, and will stay over to see the foot-ball games to-day. Mr. Trinkle is prominent in politics in his district and is Democratic chairman of his county. He is one of the best public speakers in his section of the State. He is at the Richmond.

Successful Scientific Lecture.

The series of scientific temperance lectures by Dr. E. O. Taylor at Leigh Street Baptist Church have been attended by large and interested audiences. The lectures are of a high order of merit, and the celebrated lecturer's style and delivery are very pleasing. To-night's lecture on "God's Message in Science to Thinking Men" will complete the series.

Mr. Maupin Here.

Tion, Addison Maupin, who holds a respectable position with the Virginia Telephone Company, and spends much of his time in Atlanta, the headquarters of the company, arrived in the city yesterday. Maupin expects to remove his family to Atlanta early next year and make that city his home.

Bpworth League To-night.

Mr. W. Leake Winstead, of Clay Street Epworth League, will lead the devotional exercises at Broad Street Epworth League to-night at 8 o'clock. The members are John Deanes, Colored, Is Alleged to Have Threatened Wife's Life.

SUPPERS OF THANKSGIVING

Stockton Street Baptist Church and Olympic Club Entertain—Wedding.

Mancheater Bureau, Times-Dispatch.

Little Deanes (colored), last night swore out a warrant against her husband, John Deanes, alleging that he had threatened to kill her, had drawn a pistol on her and had choked her so that she came within an ace of suffocating off this mortal coil. The trouble centers round the oracles of a fortune teller. Sometime ago John became ill and was attended by his wife. His sister came to him and told him that he was being poisoned and advised him to consult a fakir, who, it is said, conjures up all his magic art and foretells the future. The fortune-teller reiterated the statement of John's sister and advised him to consult a Richmond artist belonging to the same profession. The Richmond associate cast the same horoscope for John and he was firmly convinced that he was being poisoned by his wife. Little asserted last night that he was not aware of the idea of saying that he deliberately on two occasions tried to die. He lay down both times, complaining of pain in the region of his digestive organs.

Last night John became enflamed and ran his wife out of their home. She took refuge in the home of a neighbor.

The Ladies' Sewing Circle of Stockton Street Baptist Church gave a Thanksgiving dinner and supper at the late Mr. Pleasant's store, on Hull Street, yesterday. The meals were served in most excellent style, and the oysters, turkey, celery and the usual concomitants were fit for the most epicurean taste. Customers were plentiful, and the appetite usual with this season was very much stimulated. It is not known what exact receipts were, but it is expected that a goodly sum was realized. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Stockton Street Baptist Church.

The Olympic Club gave a most delightful supper to its members last night. The occasion was one of piquety and merriment. Fun and wit flowed like wine, and all the members enjoyed the event to the full.

Morris—Mann.

Mr. Lewis Morris, of Swansboro, and Miss Odella Mann, of Mason's Park, were married in Washington Wednesday morning by Rev. Mr. Nevin. They will make their home in Mason's Park.

Five Men Arrested.

Charles Newby was arrested Wednesday on the charge of stealing two gold watches and chains attached and two plain gold rings from Mr. Linwood Smith's jewelry store, between Everett and Main Streets. The man was placed in the station house.
